

Monday 9th March

An exciting world of learning

A massive "Thank you!" to all of the parents who turned up to last week's Ofsted Parent Forum. Our school staff, parents/carers, pupils and governors should all be very proud that our school is continuing to improve day by day, week by week, year on year.

In school this week, we were paid a visit by professional author Mark Lemon. During Tuesday's assembly, Mark told pupils all about his career journey, his latest books and gave top tips on "How to be a fantastic writer". Thank you Mark - we are deeply inspired by you!

On the subject of books, well done to all pupils and staff who dressed up for World Book Day on Thursday 5th March. We hope that you enjoyed the day and continue through life with a love of reading.

Ahead of next week, please could all parents/carers check notices for upcoming Parent Forums and Family Learning Conferences (below). We look forward to seeing you then!

Mobile Phones and Social Media

We mentioned that, recently, there had been several incidents of pupils bring mobile phones into school. Unfortunately, there have been one or two more incidents in the last week. Please be advised that mobile phones are not to be brought into school under any circumstances. Children regularly receive learning on how to keep themselves safe on the internet and social media but of course their interest in this is all part of growing up. In order for us to keep all children safe, phones must not be used in school.

Homework

Homework is available on our website each Friday - thank you for your ongoing support with this. It benefits the children to have their education supplemented and prioritised by parents and carers. The link is:
